

The Next Generation of Goverlan™ Unveiled

PJ Technologies unveils Goverlan™ 6, the next generation of its remote administration suite for Windows®.

Miami, FL (PRWEB) November 8, 2005 -- PJ Technologies Inc., a leading provider of remote administration products for Windows® platforms, is proud to announce the release of Goverlan™ version 6.

Goverlan™ was first released in 1998 and has since become the primary and most preferred remote administration solution for many businesses around the world. Chosen for its cost-effectiveness, ease-of-use and unsurpassed flexibility, Goverlan™ is a favorite amongst user support teams, system administrators and enterprise administrators alike.

The Goverlan™ Suite is comprised of five products designed to fulfill all enterprise administration needs. Goverlan™ provides domain account administration and real-time support, diagnostics and management of users and machines. Enterprise level user and desktop management features are also included, as well as a fast, secure and easy to implement remote control solution for the enterprise.

Pascal Bergeot, PJ Technologies' Chief Software Architect says: "Our goal is to provide I.T. with a sophisticated yet intuitive and flexible solution to all remote administration needs. Goverlan™ version 6 outperforms these requirements."

Amongst the major updates in Goverlan™ version 6 are: a new user interface reflecting the Microsoft Office 2003 feel and look; full WMI integration using a friendly and comprehensive interface, while excluding the need to script; customizable and extendable features using Custom Actions technology, offering hundreds of selectable custom actions in addition to the full set of WMI actions; and new administration features including MSI package management, registry and file system management, group chat and instant messaging, advanced task manager, extended Run As and IP scanner.

The Goverlan™ Remote Administration Suite is priced at $619 per console with no additional per-node fee, making it amongst the most cost-effective solutions on the market.

The Goverlan™ Remote Administration Suite also features two products sold separately - Goverlan™ Remote Control at $229 and WMIX at $69.
